

Training activities on Disaster Management (July, 2016-Report)

Disaster Management is an area where people with necessary skills and expertise to carry the risk of facilitating disasters rather than prevent, mitigate or respond to them effectively. Therefore "Training" is an important component of the Disaster management system. It facilitates the strengthening of response mechanism as well as empowers all the stakeholders to take appropriate preparedness measures.

The Community Based Disaster Preparedness (CBDP) training module is designed so as to prepare the community level volunteers/ organizations to deal with an emergency situation that may arise due to different hazards. The course provides the opportunity to learn essential knowledge and skills in disaster and to address implementation challenges in a systematic manner. The participants are provided with practical tools for design and implementation of programs for disaster preparedness through community capacity to promote a culture of safety. The NGO volunteers, CBO, Mahila Samittees, Gram Sevak, Self Help Groups, Anganwadi, ASHA etc. are targeted to be trained in CBDP.

The Training on Public Health in Emergencies (PHE) is aimed at giving specialised guidance in public health promotion and protection, disease prevention, health assessment and disease surveillance during an emergency. State, local and block level Public Health Engineering officials; Health; and Social Welfare Department officials working in various sectors of sanitation & hygiene promotion are usually targeted as they are the immediate responders to these situations and they should have immediate access to guidance and information that will assist them in rapidly establishing priorities of undertaking necessary actions during the response to an emergency or disaster besides being duly prepared if any such calamity strikes.
